Let's Start!

Pronunciation Spot: King Tut's tomb - a story from the past.

Learning Outcome

Describe rooms, homes and objects in buildings in spoken or written English within common social or work situations.

Ask your partner:

- Would you like to be an archeologist?
- What would you like to discover?

Can Do Statements

- I can say and compare words with the oo and u sound.
- I can talk about travel and places around the world.
- I can identify key information in a short audio.

Let's Explore!

Listen to a tourist read a leaflet about Tutankhamun. Why is he famous in the afterlife?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

In 1922, Howard Carter discovered the tomb of an Egyptian pharaoh, a king, who reigned in Egypt over 3,300 years ago. His team of archeologists brushed away the sand to discover the incredible artifacts. The gleaming sarcophagus had not seen the sun in thousands of years.

The tomb belonged to Tutankhamun, who died when he was about 18 years old. The discovery of his tomb and underground rooms not only thrilled the world, but also turned Tutankhamun into the most well-known ancient Egyptian.

The dusty rooms revealed treasures from the past. They discovered the tomb of an Egyptian pharaoh, but his tomb had all the signs of royalty. The ancient Egyptians believed in an afterlife, and therefore buried their kings with all the equipment needed for the following world.

Let's Practice!

Target Words

- sarcophagus (noun): a stone coffin from ancient times
Example: The sarcophagus had not seen the sun in thousands of years.
- tomb (noun): a building or chamber above or below the ground in which a dead body is kept e.g. The tomb was finally opened by his team.
- gleaming (adjective): bright or shining
Example: The gleaming artifacts shone in the sun.
- dusty (adjective): filled or covered with dust
e.g. The dusty room was full of antiques.
- afterlife (noun): a life that some people believe exists after death
Example: Egyptians believed in the afterlife.

Learning Points

Weak Form

Structural words, such as prepositions, conjunctions, auxiliaries and articles are often not stressed. Some learners can find these small words difficult to hear. This can interfere with the understanding of a sentence. The words in, an, from, etc. are “weak” in the sentence.

Examples:

- The ancient Egyptians believed in an afterlife
- The dusty rooms revealed treasures from the past.

The oo sound

How do you make the oo sound?

You make the oo sound by pulling your lips into a tense, small circle.

The back of the tongue is raised high in your mouth.

The sides of the tongue can touch the top teeth at the back of your mouth.

Here are some examples: tomb, do, move, shoe, do, room

Examples:

- They discovered the tomb of the Egyptian pharaoh.
- There were rooms filled with treasures.
- They did not want to move the mummy.
