Learning Points

Making and Responding to Requests

You can make a request using these phrases:

Could you ...

Can I ...

Could is more polite.

	Polite	Casual
Making a Request	Could you take a picture of me with this Sphinx, please?	Can you take a picture of me with this Sphinx, please?
Responding to a Request	Yes, of course. No, I'm sorry.	Sure. Here you go. No, sorry.

Talking About Purpose

You can use the infinitive form to express purpose, to share the reason why you do something.

We use infinitives (e.g., to take) to express purpose, to say the reason why we do something.

Examples:

- She came back to go into the pyramid again.
- The tour guide comes to Giza to bring tourists.
- The king's workers worked to give the Sphinx his face 4,500 years ago to honor him.
- Drink some water first to stay cool while we walk.
